*Every year we remind you that St. Gregory Thaumaturgus is the patron saint against floods. He has been said to have relocated a threatening river. Since we put his icon up in the back porch facing the river, we haven't had a major flood. Keep asking for his intercession.

The Catholic Campaign for Human Development (CCHD) is the U.S. bishops' social justice, anti-poverty campaign. Locally, CCHD operates out of the Catholic Social Action office and it is supported by an Archdiocesan CCHD Committee that consists of parishioners from across the archdiocese.

Now You Know

Let's say you go for a walk in the woods one day. As you're walking along the path, you see an empty Coke can lying in the grass along the path. Your first thought is, "How could someone toss a Coke can away in a beautiful place like this?!" The underlying assumption being, of course, that the Coke can is a sign of "someone" having been there. Well, you walk along a little farther on the path, and across a meadow you see an old, dilapidated barn. And you might think about who built it, how long it's been there, and so on. Again, though, the underlying assumption is that the abandoned barn is a sign that someone was there. In neither case - the Coke can nor the old barn - would you say to yourself, "Wow, look what mindless, meaningless, natural processes have made by blind, random chance.

But, here's the thing. Those trees you've been walking by on the path, a single leaf from any one of those trees is more complex in its makeup - chemically, biologically, etc. - and from a design perspective, than either the Coke can or the old barn. It has been put together in an absolutely magnificent fashion and it can do incredible things - like turn sunlight and carbon dioxide into food. Yet, an atheist would say that, even though it is incredibly more complex than the Coke can or the barn - which are signs of the existence of an intelligent agent - the leaf came to be as the result of mindless, meaningless, natural processes that operate strictly by blind, random chance.

Do you know any atheists? Can you imagine how much pride they have in their intelligence that they're so smart they don't need God? Pray for them. (Many thanks to John Martignoni and the Bible Christian Society www.biblechristiansociety.com.)

"Never say, 'What great things the saints do,' but, 'What great things God does in His saints.'" — St. Philip Neri

"Don't spend your energies on things that generate worry, anxiety and anguish.

Only one thing is necessary: Lift up your spirit, and love God."
— St. Padre Pio

Register now at www.e6catholicmensconference.com. The E6 Catholic Men's Conference is designed to bring men into a deeper relationship with Christ and His Catholic Church through: a worthy celebration of the sacraments, engaging talks to strengthen their faith, opportunities for true fraternity and exposure to good resources to aid them in living their faith as disciples of Christ. In a world that is losing a truly biblical understanding of masculinity, fatherhood and brotherhood, this conference aims at equipping men to put on the armor of God (Ephesians 6:10-18) and stand as men of Christ. This year features national renowned speakers Mark Hart, Trent Horn and Justin Fatica, and will be one of the largest and most dynamic gatherings of Catholic men in the tri-state area. The conference is scheduled for February 23, 2019, in St. Leon, Indiana.

Weekly Prayer at Local Abortion Centers: After the closing of the abortion center in Sharonville, there are two remaining surgical abortions centers within the boundaries of the Archdiocese of Cincinnati. Every Saturday, at 8 A.M., come to Holy Name Church (2422 Auburn Ave.) for Mass followed by Exposition, a rosary procession to the nearby Planned Parenthood facility, and return to Holy Name for benediction. Joining in these rosaries is a peaceful way to stand for life!

Now that the time has changed, we are surrounded by darkness in the evenings. Accordingly, our Come and Savor evening meetings are suspended here at St. Jerome's until the light returns next year.

Please recall: Jesus said, "...if one walks at night he stumbles because the light is not in him" (John 11:10)

Only one diocesan inquiry for sainthood has happened in the Archdiocese of Cincinnati. Blessed Frances Schervier (1819-1876) established a religious community devoted to caring for the poor – the Sisters of the Poor of St. Francis. Blessed Frances was beatified on April 28, 1974. The alleged miracle attributed to Blessed Frances occurred in March of 1989, when Tom Siemers was healed from a massive brain hemorrhage. His wife Susan Siemers felt prompted to pray a novena and asked for the intercession of Blessed Frances. Siemers eventually became fully independent and healthy. He passed away in 2014. If the cause for sainthood is approved, a date for the 2019 canonization of Mother Schervier will be set.
